To All Concerned:

I am the managing partner of Parsons, Heizer, Paul LLP, a boutique employment, employee benefits and health care law firm in Denver, Colorado. Each of the partners of our firm is a former partner of a large Denver law firm. We decided to leave our former firm, in part, because of frustrations we experienced with that firm's failure to leverage technology for the benefit of its clients, equity holders and employees. As a consequence, one of our primary organizational premises was to implement effective and reliable technology.

Dawn Lutz and Brad Wherry of Technetronic Solutions, Inc. ("TSI") came highly recommended to us from a number of their clients. We hired TSI in September of 2004 to assist us in the implementation, monitoring and maintenance of all of our IT systems, including telephony, computer hardware, computer software and security. Their performance has been both exemplary and unblemished. We have had a fully stable network for 2 years and 6 months, and have substantially increased per partner profits due to technology efficiencies TSI helped us achieve.

I need say little else, other than: we have recommended Dawn and Brad to some of our most valuable clients because we are confident in their ability to take an extremely strategic and practical approach to both implementation and problem solving. Our own clients' feedback mirrors that in this letter.

As a plus, TSI is actively involved with promoting technology education through their sponsorship and extensive volunteer work with the FIRST Robotics program in Colorado. A commitment to education and public service that is very important to our philosophy as a firm.

I cannot recommend them more highly.

Please call me if you have any specific questions, or require any additional information.

Sincerely,

PARSONS, HEIZER, PAUL LLP
